

THE POLIZIA DI STATO BRASS BAND

The Polizia di Stato brass band is a musical ensemble composed of around fifty musicians performing under the direction of maestro Secondino De Palma.

Originally the band performed at processions, military parades and official ceremonies. Over the years, also thanks to the inclusion of further musicians, the brass band has greatly widened its repertoire, now spanning from traditional to modern music, which attests to a high level of versatility and professionalism. Evidence of this are the many concerts performed by the band in squares and in some Italian theaters.

The brass band is based in Rome and participates not only in institutional events, but also in cultural ones with a charitable aim on a national and international scale. Special attention is devoted to students of schools of all types and at all levels for which the Polizia di Stato brass band often performs educational concerts.
