

Law no. 154 dated April 8, 2001

Law no. 154 dated April 8, 2001 -- Measures against violence within the family – introduced innovative tools for combating family violence and, above all, for providing victims with a swift though temporary protection:

- the removal of the violent partner from the family home (art. 282-bis of the criminal procedure code) which prevents the victim from suffering further traumas and going through further ordeals;
- the “protection orders against family abuse” contained in articles 342-bis and 342-ter of the civil code which allow victims to obtain protection before filing a report with the police.